The Bathroom Sensation That's Sweeping the Nation

Hey there cougars! It's another (presumably) very windy week up here on the mesa, but the sun is still shining and I'm still here to brighten up your bathroom trip, so what's left to complain about? Full disclosure, I'm writing this two weeks prior because I'm going out of town for a bit, so if it turns out that its cloudy, rainy, and not windy, I apologize in advance. Either way, I hope you're having a great day today and that things are going well. If they aren't, take this time to take a few deep breaths and reset. Take things one day at a time.

Compliments 101

All humans fundamentally want one thing. It's either love or really good salsa. Today we're focusing on the first. Love can come in many forms, but the most basic of these is through compliments. Here are a few go-to compliments that are sure to impress whoever you're talking to.

- "In the best way possible, your eyes remind me of a beaver.
- "Oh my gosh, I love your shirt, my underwear matches that color exactly!"
- "You're so funny. You make me laugh harder than Amy Schumer does."
- "You remind me a lot of my grandfather. He's old and boring."
- "If you were a worm, I'd find the very best dirt to put you in."
- "If I had to choose between you and cheese, I'd probably pick cheese, but it would be way closer than if it was anybody else."
- "I really like your style. I'll raid my grandmother's closet and we can match tomorrow."
- At this point, hopefully you know when I'm being serious about advice. This is one of the times where it's a joke. Please don't use these.
