

The Bathroom Sensation That's Sweeping the Nation

This is the final week of school for the 23-24 school year! Exciting, right? Seniors are gone, so the hallways feel a little empty, and teachers are getting ready for the final grades, so they might be tired and overwhelmed. Let's hang on for just one more week, Cougars! I'll be back next year with a new edition, so keep an eye out!

Summer Fun!

We're almost free, so make some plans on what to do over the summer!

- Play a sport? Look for teams to join that play over the summer to stay in shape!
- Hang out with your friends as often as you can! When school starts up, you might become too busy to hang out with them, so make sure you spend quality time with everybody you care about!
- Read over the summer! The library, and a library card, is free for everybody, and there's a wide selection of books for you to look over.
- Learn a new skill! Want to learn how to knit, sew, cook, and so on? You've got the time for it over the summer!
- If you like the outdoors, Colorado has a lot of things to do! Hiking, kayaking, hot air balloons, mountain climbing, and more! Have fun with it, Cougars!
- Redecorate your room. Are you getting bored with it? Take this as an opportunity to switch it up! Get someone to move your bed, your dresser, and move your posters around!
- On the topic of rooms...a deep clean of your room might be good, to get rid of your old trash and create a new space for yourself.

Journalism Club?

Hello, Cougars! Want the chance to write articles like the ones featured in the Potty Mouth recently, or even to write an edition of the Potty Mouth yourself?

When next year rolls around, keep a look out for advertisements for the Cougar Daily Club (or any other similar name)! While journalism was a class this year, due to very few people signing up for the class next year, it may have to become a club rather than a class (for now), but it will still be headed by Mr. Philipsen, who also teaches AP Language and Composition.

If you're still on the fence, here's a few reasons why Journalism will be beneficial for you and your writing!

Journalism combines on-paper literacy and social interaction, helping students develop speaking skills by making them speak to people they normally would not. Journalism also requires students to use their learning and apply it in a way easily understandable to readers, strengthening complex thinking and understanding of pursued topics.

Journalism also rewards curiosity by encouraging students to engage in subjects they are interested in and apply them to the real world, and practice verbalizing and asking complex questions.

The skills used in Journalism can also be used outside of the class, like active listening, self-advocacy, and so on! Check it out, Cougars!
